"There are more men ennobled by reading than by nature."

Entered at the Post Office, New York, N. Y. as second class matter.

English as it Should be Spoken

We'll begin with a box, and the plural is boxes,
But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes;
Then one fowl is goose, but two are called geese,
Yet the plural of mouse should never be meese;
You may find a lone mouse, a whole nest of mice,
But the plural of house is houses, not hice:
If the plural of man is always called men,
Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?
The cow in the plural may be cows or kine,
But a sow if repeated is never called skine,
And the plural of vow is vows, never vine.
And if I speak of a foot and you show me your feet,
And I give you a boot, would a pair be called beet?
If one is a tooth and a whole set are teeth.
Why should n't the plural of booth be called beeth?
If the singular's this and plural is these,
Should the plural of kiss be nicknamed kese?
Then one would be that and three would be those,
Yet hat in the plural would never be hose;
And the plural of cat is cats, not cose.
We speak of a brother and also of brethren;
But though we say mother we never say methren;
Then masculine pronouns are he, his, and him.
But imagine the feminine, she, shis, and shim!
The English, I think, you all will agree.
Is the dod rottest language you ever did see.—Ex.

REUNITED BY AN ACCIDENT

A jar, a whistle, a flag waved, and the train began to shudder and to move. The man kissed the smoothly gloved hand that lay on the window and drew back. As he did so, another man came up the platform running with great strides, caught at the handle of the door, shook it, and as it resisted, leaped on the step of the carriage, amid the shouts of porters, and was borne out of the station clinging to the carriage door.

"The door's locked," she said from within.

The man on the step thrust a bag through the window on to the seat and felt in his pocket. Then he moved a couple of feet past the carriage door, unlocked it with a railway key, stepped into the carriage and closed the door after him.

"That was a near thing!" he said. And now for the first time the fellow-travelers looked in each other's face.

His mouth grew stern. The pink faded from her face and a greenish pallor crept up to the blue eyes.

"You!" she said.

He looked at her critically—raised his hat without speaking, and busied himself with the straps of his bag. From this he took a book and in it read sedulously, never raising his eyes.

She watched him by stolen glances, met always by the defense of his drooped lids. A handsome man—big and broad-shouldered.

Grown bolder, she watched him now no more by fleet, snatched instants, but steadily, as the train rattled and swung in its gathering speed. She looked at the firm hands that held the book. A year ago those hands had held hers; she trembled at the memory of their touch. She looked at his lips—firm, smooth, pale lips, set in a thin line. A year ago those lips—

It was at this moment that he raised his eyes and looked at her. A hot blush covered her face and ears and neck. He looked at her for one brief instant—a faint amusement in his half-closed eyes—and resumed his reading.

"Oh, don't read!" she said desperately. "The train doesn't stop for hours. Surely you won't keep three hours' silence with an old acquaintance just because—"

He laid down the book at once.

"I beg your pardon," he said courteously. "You were so well provided with traveling companions that I feared to force the conversation of another on you."

His glance rested on her papers for an instant, and—for a longer instant—on the violets she carried.

She laid the flowers on the cushion beside her.

"I am going to be married on Monday," she said abruptly.

"A thousand congratulations," he said smiling.

"I am to be Lady Leamington," she said.

"You are going to marry him?" The scorn in his voice stung her like a whip.

She raised her head proudly.

"I consider myself extremely fortunate," she said, and took up a magazine.

And now it was he who watched her, with a gaze so fixed that she felt it in every nerve. Suddenly he shrugged his shoulders and moved to the seat opposite hers. Then he spoke.

"Of all the virtues, I have always supposed reticence to be the most admirable, as it is the rarest. I have striven to practice it. Therefore, when you broke off our engagement, I did not seek to justify myself. Pride may have been for something in my silence also—I scorn to deny it. I own that my pride suffered when I found that you could throw me away at the first word from a stranger."

She made a movement to speak, but he went on: "I was foolish, I admit; but, you see, I thought you loved me. You must make allowance for the other delusions that followed on that. The point is that I was not going to defend myself, since you—who ought to have defended me—if you had loved me, I mean, of course—set yourself as my accuser. But that's all over, thank God! can I not feel a sincere, if slight, interest in your welfare—as an old friend; and I think I ought to tell you the unpleasant truth about Lord Leamington, your fortunate bridegroom."

"I wish you wouldn't talk like a book," she said. "If you want to abuse my future husband, do it in plain English."

"I will," he said "He told you that he found a girl in my rooms at midnight, and that her arms were round my neck. You asked me if this were true. I admitted it. You asked for no explanation, and I gave none."

"No explanation," she began angrily, "could have—"

"No—I know; but now it is different. I can't let an old friend marry that man in ignorance of the facts. He had arranged to call for me at twelve; I had an article to finish, and we were going on to the Somersets' ball. At about a quarter to twelve I opened the door to a knock. It was not Leamington, but this girl. I knew her very sightly. She had lost her last train to Putney, or Peckham, or somewhere—would I help her? It was like a scene in a play, don't you know. I was discretion absolute—left the door open—gave her wine and biscuits, and proposed to charter a homeward cab for her. Then came Leamington's step on the stair, and at that, as at a signal, she flung her arms round my neck. I should feel like a hairdresser's apprentice in telling you this, but I know now why it was done. It was Leamington's last cast for you; and he threw the double six, confound him!"

She looked him with shining eyes.

"Is this true?" she said. "Why didn't you tell me before?"

"You never asked me."

"It is only your word against his—"

"After a few years of married life you will be better able to judge of their relative values," he said, leaning back in his corner.

She lifted the violets to her face—the cool freshness of them was like a child's kiss.

"Charles," she said softly, and reached out a timid hand towards him.

His face grew stiff and set.

"You understand my motives?" he said coldly. "I could not see any old friend married to a liar and a blackguard without a word of warning."

"I was only—I wanted to shake hands with my old friend—to show that he forgives me." She hardly knew what she was saying

"There is nothing to forgive," he said. "I had almost forgotten the circumstances till your face reminded me of it.

She turned her head to the window, so that he should not see her eyes. With a shriek and a rumble the train passed into a tunnel. The roar of it rang in her ears, and the tears ran down her face on to the sables. Two shrieks from the engine—the train quivered and shook with the sudden stress of the brakes. Then came another shriek, a crash—and—the biggest accident of the year, as the Northern express ran full into the rear lights of the slow local.

The first-class carriage where pride and love had fought lay battered and overturned on the up line. The deafening noise of steam, the clamor of voices, the wailing of children, the cries of women, rang out in the arch of the tunnel. But in the first-class carriage there was silence and darkness, for with the shock all the lights had gone out.

Presently in the darkness a match spurted. He raised himself on one elbow and tried to drag his other arm from under the wood that imprisoned it. The arm was tightly wedged, and he felt that it was broken. He lit another match, his teeth set in agony, and looked around for her. She was lying quite near him, yet not within reach, all twisted up, a heap of dark cloth and furs. Her eyes were closed, and there was blood on the ghastly white of her face.

"My darling! my darling!" he cried, and with that he tore st his imprisoned arm to free it— that he might get to her—fought and tore till from sheer pain he went out of life.

When the sufferers were one by one drawn out of the wreck, he and she were among the last to be released. He regain d his consciousness in the anguish of that release.

They bound up his arm and her head and, clinging to each other, they trotted out of the tunnel by the light of the torches and climbed into the relief train. It was crowded with pale, bandaged faces and limbs swathed in white.

"I shall get out at the first station," he said and his voice was coldly polite. "By the way, I didn't understand. Does your wedding take place in the morning?"

She leaned a little against his uninjured shoulder, and so closely was the carriage packed that he could not draw away.

"If you wish it," she said.

"I beg your pardon?" he questioned courteously.

"Oh, hush!" she whispered. "You cannot go on pretending any more now. When you thought I was dead, you called me your darling. Do you remember?"

"You are mistaken," he said, but she answered with eyes that laughed at him from under the white bandage.

"Don't scowl at me. I am not a bit afraid of you. Nothing matters now I know that you love me. You will see—I shall have everything my own way."

Under the sables, her hand, in its torn, grimy glove slipped into his. He clasped it and: "You have exercised the devil," he said softly, and her fingers clung to his.

"Say it again—now you know that I am not dead."

So he whispered in her ear in that crowded carriage the most banal of love's banalities: "My darling!"

Prizes! Prizes! Prizes!

YOU CAN WIN ONE.

The management of the Moving Picture Fund Project is elated over the growing interest in the movement, and feels encouraged to offer a number of the prizes to be distributed among the coworkers making the best showings. There is no doubt that a large number will take advantage of the offer.

PRIZE No. 1. Free trips to the N. A. D. Convention at Colorado Springs, one from each State, to the Collectors making the highest showings for amounts over $250. The winners will have their railroad fares and five days hotel expenses paid for.

PRIZES No. 2. Beautiful Gold Watches, one to each State, to the Collectors making the best returns for amounts over $50.

PRIZES No. 3. A National Prize of a trio of Prize White Leghorns—two hens and one cockerel—the gift of President Veditz—is offered to the State Treasurer returning the largest pro rata total to the Fund, the basis of pro rating to be the number of pupils in the school or schools of each state as given in the tabular statement in the January, 1910 Annals. The trio will be shipped free of expense to the winner.

PRIZES No. 4. A National Prize of a handsome Gold Medal to the Collector making the best returns for amounts over $250.

In addition to these prizes, special prizes, the donations of State Treasurers and friends, are being offered in several States. Three have been officially reported to me.

FOR MISSOURI. A Gold Watch, the gift of William Howe Phelps.

FOR COLORADO. A trio of prize Leghorns to the Collector in this State handing in the largest amount. This is another gift of President Veditz, who will ship them free of expense to the winner.

A second prize—a trio of beautiful Buff Leghorns, the gift of Mrs. Winemiller—is offered to the Collector sending in the second largest amount.

Other prizes will no doubt he offered in other States.

If you are interested in helping the Moving Picture project, and also wish to aid the N. A. D. in having a substantial Endowment Fund, write to your State Treasurer for a collection blank, and for further particulars. As a favor, enclose a stamped envelope for the reply.

Papers for the deaf please copy.

OSCAR H. REGENSBURG,
National Treasurer.

VENICE, CAL., April 28, 1910.

The propositions contained in prize offers No. 1 and No. 4 were submitted to me by Mr. Regensburg, and I take the utmost pleasure in giving them cordial and official endorsement.

With this mail I am, however, suggesting to Mr. Regensburg in connection with prize No. 1, that instead of limiting the number to one from each State, any and all who may collect $250 or more before August 6th next, may receive this free trip to the N. A. D. Convention at Colorado Springs as a prize for their work in behalf of the Fund.

I am also suggesting that instead of a blanket rate of $250 to cover all the States, distance from Colorado be taken into consideration and the amount necessary to entitle a collector to the trip vary from $175 to $250.

At all events the work of each collector who wins the trip should net the Fund $150 or more.

I am also suggesting an arrangement whereby the State Treasurers may benefit from this competition.

If these suggestions meet with his approval Mr. Regensburg will publish the amplified offer as soon as possible.

But meanwhile lose no time. Get to work and secure a collector's permit from your State Treasurer.

Whoop, boys! Get a full-grown, able-bodied hustle on you! Get to work! Inaugurate a "whirlwind campaign" of your own. Get your friends to help. You have three months in which to do the work. Similar campaigns with similar prizes in view are in progress everywhere.

The origination of the idea, in this instance, deserves a gold medal. It is Mr. Harley D. Drake, State Treasurer for Ohio. He thought of offering a free N. A. D. trip out of his own pocket to the leading Ohio Collector and submitted the idea to Mr. Regensburg. The National offer is the outcome. The old N. A. D. is to be congratulated on having such loyal and zealous servants.

Whoop her up, boys and girls, and get to work. What's the matter with one thousand of you winning this prize of a Colorado trip? The Fund wants this $250, or more, from each of you. Deep down in your hearts you want this trip, and the Convention wants YOU.

What a splendid glorious thing, it would be for one thousand of the cream of American's deaf to be gathered together, absorbing new conceptions of the greatness of our country during the trip, and working together in Convention for the uplift of the class.

And the Fund? Think of it! Think of the old N. A. D. ship of state a fighting Dreadnaught with a twelve-inch annual armament of six thousand dollars. I was born a rainbow chaser and expect to die one, but never mind! Whoop her up, boys and girls! Let your slogan be "Two Fifty and Pike's Peak!" Erase the word "bust" from your dictionaries.

Cordially and enthusiastically,
GEORGE WM. VEDITZ.

MESSAGE BY CHRIST FROM FOOT OF CROSS.

PURPORTED TO HAVE COME AFTER CRUCIFIXION, AND ORDERED SPREAD BROADCAST.

A message purporting to have come from Christ after the crucifixion and deposited by Him under a stone at the foot of the cross is arousing interest throughout the country. The belief that Christ really gave the message to be spread broadcast and that failure to do so will result in misfortune has resulted in its being passed along, endless chain fashion. The story is that a little child turned the stone under which the message was hidden and that the document was given to a convert to the Christain faith. This convert kept it as a sacred memento of Christ and down through generations in his family it was until 1,000 years were passed. Misfortune attended the family always, according to the tale, and at last one of the members came to America, bringing the letter with him. Mrs. Fannie Wortman of Marion, Ind., claims to know the history of the document from that time on. According to her, the owner of it went to Virginia and after a series of misfortunes the last of the family passed out. A Mrs. Thompson, a neighbor of the family, took the letter and had it published.

Mrs. Rubin Crutchefield of Trezevant, Tenn., is another who says she suffered misfortune until she printed the letter. The document reads:

"SABBATH OBSERVANCE.

"Whoever works on the Sabbath day shall be cursed. I command you to go to church and keep holy the Lord's day without any manner of work. You shall not idle or misspend your time in bedecking yourselves in superfluities of costly apparel and vain dressing, for I have ordered it a day of rest. I will have that day kept holy that your sins may be forgiven you.

"You will not break my commandments, but observe and keep them, they being written by my hand and spoken by my mouth. You shall not only go to church yourselves, but also your man servant and maid servant. Observe my words and learn my commandments.

"BLESSING PROMISED.

"You shall love one another and cause them that are baptized to come to church and receive the holy sacraments—that is to say baptism and then the supper of the Lord, and be made a member thereof, and in so doing I will give you long life and many blessings. Your land shall be replenished and bring forth abundance, and I will comfort you in the greatest temptation, and surely he that doeth to the contrary shall be cursed.

"I will also send hardness of the heart on them, and especially on hardened and unpenitent unbelievers. He that hath given to the poor shall find it profitable. Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken as a resting day to myself.

"And he that hath a copy of this letter, written by my own hand and spoken from my own mouth, and keepeth it, without publishing it to others, shall not prosper; but he that publisheth it to others shall be blessed by me, and if their sins be as many as the stars at night, and if they truly believe that they shall be pardoned, and they that believe not this writing and my commandments will have my plagues upon you, and you will be consumed with your children, goods, cattle and all other wordly enjoyments that I have given you. Do but once think of what I have suffered for you; if you do it will be well for you in this world and in the world which is to come

"Whosoever shall have a copy of this letter and keep it in their house, nothing shall hurt them—neither pestilence, lightning nor thunder; and if any woman be in birth and put her trust in me she shall be delivered of her child. You shall hear no more news of me, except through the Holy Scripture, until the day of judgment. All goodness and prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found. Finished."

HIGHLANDS, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Smith, formerly of Jersey City, N. J., and now a resident of Highlands, N. J., celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary at Highlands, N. J., May 1st, 1910.

Mrs. Wm. E. Smith (nee Miss Elizabeth A. Coppock) was a pupil of the Deaf-Mutes' Institution at Fanwood, N. Y., from 1881 to 1885.

The dining-room where the reception was held, was beautifully decorated with dog-wood, bells, bunting and beautiful cut flowers, and over seventy-five friends and relatives attended, and also many deaf-mute friends of Mrs. Wm. E. Smith attended the reception, and all enjoyed a delightful time.

The friends and relatives that attended, came from: Jersey City, Bayonne, Woodridge, New York, Yonkers, Brooklyn, Staten Island, Hoboken, N. J., and Connecticut, Highlands, N. J.

The wedding march was played by Miss C. Middleton, their niece. Many vocal selections were rendered by Mr. A. Erickson, Miss Lulu Callaghan, Miss Ida Grantgien, Alfred Marker and their daughter Miss Eva C. Smith.

Many beautiful and costly presents were received, and every one went away happy.

The Reverend Dr. Munday, Rector of Grace Church, Port Huron, writes as follows to the Rev. Mr. Mann:— "Yours duly to hand. I shall have great pleasure in giving the notices referred to, and will see that the newspapers get your letters. You certainly have a wide field, I rejoice in the conviction that God is blessing your work."

Ignorance is a wild sweet-brier which education turns into a queenly rose.

ONE of the surprising features of the New York Institution, that never fails to excite the wonder and admiration of people who hear, is the military band composed of pupils of the school. Generally there is much incredulity concerning the deafness of the boys who make the music. It is beyond the comprehension of the average person how a deaf boy can be taught to play on any musical instrument with any degree of success. But there is no gainsaying the fact that it is done, not alone by a single individual, but by a group, whose performances are said to be in perfect time and harmony.

Many of these boys possess a latent sense of hearing, but in most cases it so nearly approximates total deafness that as a guiding sense in the acquirement of the ability to produce good music it is of little value. This scant advantage, however, improves as time goes by. There seems to be something in the vibrations of music that exercises the nerves of audition and vitalizes them, so that eventually a boy who was classified at the outset as practically devoid of hearing, becomes what is usually termed "very hard of hearing." That is a stage in the progressive development of the sense of hearing that is utilized to the utmost. All the education is now given by the aural method, and progress in speech and in the ability to understand speech is usually rapid; for, be it understood that music is not the end aimed at, but rather the means to an end whose objective is to restore the hitherto deaf boy to the ranks of the hearing world.

The writer of this has known more than one case in which a boy entered school practically deaf but graduated with the sense of hearing almost normal—not the sense of hearing alone, but also the use of easy and fluent speech. This can be attributed to the harmonious vibrations that have revitalized a dormant sense. Principal Currier was laughed at when he inaugurated military drill for the boys at Fanwood. But when he started a military band, how the skeptics roared; yet to-day we see both these innovations regarded with admiration and praised by all who have witnessed the drill and evolutions and heard their band evolve the sweetest musical airs. The first has made them upright, alert and graceful. The last has given to some of them the greatest of boons—an ability to interpret spoken sounds and to enjoy and profit by the charms of music.

The following, which appeared as an editorial in the Ohio State Journal, attests to the inspiring power of music in quickening the destroyed nerves of physical being, and lends additional testimony to the value of the musical methods which are so agreeably and usefully pursued at Fanwood.

"MUSIC AND PARALYSIS

"A the Tiny Guild in London, some remarkable cures have been obtained through the use of music. The patients were children afflicted with paralysis. One boy, whose right arm was totally paralyzed, was given a drum, which he was led to play on, with some energy and persistence. After a while, the paralyzed arm became almost as useful as the other.

"Another boy, who was totally paralyzed in both legs, was placed on the edge of a low chair, and was required to go thought 'marching' motions, keeping time to an inspiring tune played on the piano. In this way, the boy was in turn given good use of his legs. In both of these cases, the affliction was pronounced as incurable.

"It is explained that the exercise, thus pleasantly induced, through the inspiration of music, built up and strengthened the paralyzed muscles; but it is highly probable that the harmony itself had some effect. Health is harmony; disease is discord, that is pretty clear. In nervous cases, there is always improvement when one get the nerves to keeping step with some sweet strain."

AFTER fifty years of active work in the education of the deaf, Dr. E. M. Gallaudet retires from the office of President of Gallaudet College, with the laurels that belong to fame and extraordinary accomplishment. Founder of the only institution for the higher education of the deaf in the world, he has set the standard of scholarly acquisition by them so high as to command the admiration and win the encomiums of all of the educators of the deaf in the New and Old World. He has always been the friend of the deaf, championed their rights and upheld every good cause that concerned their welfare. He has been an uncompromising foe to all single-method narrowness that would confine their efforts and dwarf their mental development. If you would see the results of his work look around you, in whatever State of the Union you may be, and note the many examples of successful achievement, useful living, and public-spirited progressiveness.

To his successor, Prof. Percival Hall, we extend congratulations, with the full confidence that he will "make good." He is a Harvard graduate, a Normal graduate of Gallaudet, and a one time teacher at Fanwood. He is an erudite, capable and scholarly man, with a characteristic honesty and directness of purpose that is sure to win, and besides this has a disposition of considerate kindliness and a real love for and interest in the deaf and their education.

MUCH correspondence crowded out. Look for it next week.

GREATER DREAMLAND

OPENS MAY 14

Greater Dreamland will swing wide open its gates on Saturday, May 14th, and inaugurate its Coney Island season completely changed with more new shows, more novelties and the greatest collection of laugh-makers ever placed in New York's big playground—this is the management's announcement. General Manager Gumpertz has sought the wide world for novel amusements and he is more than satisfied with the result. In fact he has a world's fair, congress of nations, an exposition of world-sought wonders. Among the big new things will be a Borneo Village peopled with savages; Alligator Joe's Alligator and Crocodile Farm, a reproduction of Florida's everglades, with 1,500 living specimens; "The Devil's Thumb," a black art show; and Alias Kid Allen, a spectacle of events in the life of a convict. The Glaciers and "Trip to the Pole," the new ride in Dreamland is the largest and most picturesque on the Island. Bostock's Arena will have 200 wild beasts and 100 tamers; popular "Creation will again attract, as will the "Canal of Venice." "Mt. Blanc" and the "Great Divide. There will be 20 diving Venuses, the "Rigamarole, "Ocean Waves" and countless others. A big free, circus will add to the merriment. Being on the sea, Dreamland has an ocean boardwalk, promenade and beach, fine bathing and fishing.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE.

Dr. Edward Miner Gallaudet, founder of Gallaudet College, for fifty-three years active president of the Columbian Institution, and the foremost advocate of deaf-mute education in the country, yesterday afternoon received formal notice that his resignation as president of the Institution had been regretfully accepted by the Board of Trustees, the resignation to take place in June, at the termination of the present session. The Board's choice for Dr. Gallaudet's successor fell upon Prof. Percival Hall, who had accepted the honor.

The occasion was the Forty-sixth Anniversary of Gallaudet College, and the formal presentation of the Class of 1910 to the Board for degress.

Dr. Gallaudet has taken a lifelong interest in the education of deaf-mutes, his father, the late Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, of Hartford, Ct., having been the originator of the system in America. Dr. Gallaudet started the present college in 1864, in what was then the Kendall School, a project of Amos R. Kendall, situated in northeast Washington, now Kendall Green. From an humble beginning Dr. Gallaudet built up the present educational institution that is doing such remarkable work toward uplifting young men and women physically incapable of obtaining a higher education in the ordinary schools and colleges. The Doctor is venerated by the deaf all over the civilized world, and loved as a father by the generations of students who have passed through the college. The notice of his resignation came like a bombshell in the midst of the Presentation exercises. It was know that the Doctor has suffered much of late with poor health, and that the active management of the Columbian Institution was taxing his strength to the utmost. However, such a permanent fixture did he seem that there was a general refusal to anticipate his retirement.

At the earnest request of the Board Dr. Gallaudet will remain on the faculty for one more year.

The selection of Prof. Hall to succeed Dr. Gallaudet next September met with instant and hearty approval among the students. Prof. Hall completed the Normal course in Gallaudet College in 1893, teaching for a short time in New York, then accepting the chair of Applied Mathematics and Pedagogy in the college. He is president of the Harvard Club in Washington, and very popular, especially among the younger generation. His ability to take up and carry on the work of Dr. Gallaudet is unquestioned.

The Presentation exercises were conducted under the most favorable auspices of recent years. The weather was ideal, and the College chapel crowded with friends and relatives of the honorees, and profusely decorated with palms, presented an inspiring sight. The class is a large one and compares favorably with previous classes.

Perhaps the most pleasing and, if we consider it from the standpoint of the visitors, the most novel feature of the exercises was the delivery of orations by four representatives of the class. Three of these were in the graceful language of the deaf, the fourth being spoken in a surprisingly accurate voice. Miss Marry J. Gillman, of Kansas, was first, with a very creditable review as Wordsworth as the Poet of Nature, her signs being interpreted by Miss Elizabeth Peet, of the faculty. There is something appealing in her closing words: "It is said that not many appreciate Wordsworth, but in the heart of a retiring and lonely worshipper of Nature this author creates a feeling of peace, a calm happiness, and an added reverence for the things for which their hearts beat in unison."

"The Fiction of To-day" was spoken by Miss Alice Nicholson, of Florida, interpreted into the sign language by Dr. Ely. Miss Nicholson is fortunate in having a clear voice, retained, during the years of her association with the deaf, by frequent practice with her instructors. She is particularly qualified to do justice to her subject, being a deep student of literature, and her talent in this line is such that, at the beginning of the year, she was honored by the students with the office of Literary Editor of the College magazine. Miss Nicholson did not learn to speak during her stay in the College, as many have supposed; she has always been able to articulate well.

"Education, Life and Work among the Swiss," was the topic handled by Mr. Gottlieb Bieri, of Michigan. His signs interpreted by Prof. Day, he went into the details of Swiss life and ideals. Mr. Bieri was born in Switzerland, in the Canton of Bern, coming to this country when seven years of age. That his early impressions remain, is shown by the subject matter of his oration, which was something unique.

"Friendship," by Miss Thiessen, of Washington State, read by Prof. Hall, came last. In that mysterious, attractive language of the deaf, Miss Thiessen made a strong appeal to her audience to try and appreciate the value of a friend, so that when our work on earth is done "then and then only, can we say, 'I have lived and loved,' which we take to mean, 'I have lived because I have loved.'"

There were eighteen candidates for degrees, as follows:

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES.

FOR THE DEGREEE OF MASTER OF ARTS—Brewster R. Allabough, B.A., Gallaudet College.

NORMAL FELLOWS—Sabra Clarinda Bradley, A.B., William Woods College, Missouri; Ignatius Thorvald Bjorlee, B.S., St. Olaf College, Minnesota; Alfred Leslie Brown, B.L., Westminister College, Missouri.

FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF ARTS—Gottlieb Bieri, Philip Earl Cadwell, Mary Joseph Gillman, Francis Marion Holliday, Gilbert Jentoft Isackson, Lulu May Lewis, Ida May Linabury, Alice Nicholson, Bertha May Thiessen, William Nathan Toomey.

FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF SCIENCE—Arthur Benedict Dillion, Philip Robert Schroedel, Jr.

FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF LETTERS—Maude Elizabeth Roath.

NORMAL STUDENT—Florence Maude Key, Olathe High School, Kansas.

Secretary Ballinger was to have given the address of the afternoon, but sent word of his inability to come. In his place, Pres. Gallaudet introdueed Ex-Pres. Merrill E. Gates, of Amherst. In a felicitous address Dr. Gates congratulated the class upon the attainment of its momentous day.

Mr. E. Ross Perry addressed the assembly on behalf of the Board of Trustees, announcing Dr. Galladuet's resignation and the promotion of Prof. Hall. He made a pathetic reference to the absence of the late Mr. Justice Brewer, who had always been an enthusiastic friend and supporter of the Columbian Institution, and who was regular in attendance upon Presentation Days in the past.

Hon. John B. Wight, also of the Board, made a short address, principally a tribute to the retiring president. Bishop Harding closed the exercises with an impressive benediction.

The invited guests for the occasion were: Ex-Pres. George Williamson Smith of Trinity; ex-Pres. Merrill E. Gates of Amherst; Pres. Thirkield of Howard; ex-Pres. Needham of G. W. U.; Mr. R. Ross Perry, George McLanahan, and John B. Wight of the Board of Trustees; Rev. John W. Chickering, Emeritus Prof. of Natural Science, Gallaudet College; Congressman Gill; Bishop Harding.

At the conclusion of the exercises Dr. Gallaudet, assisted by Miss Gallaudet, received the Class of 1910, a large number of their invited friends, the faculty, and his invited guests at the exercises at his home, 1 Kendall Green.

The Reception Committee at the Presentation exercises was composed of the following:—John Tom Hower, Marshall; George H. Bailey, Leslie A. Elmer, Homer E. Grace, Henry S. Morris, Ira M. Robinson, Elmer D. Talbert.

Class Day, Thursday, May 5, was one of the most memorable occasions of the year, not only in that the weather was ideal for holding the class exercises out of doors, but in that the exercises were unique. The Class is to be congratulated on the judgment that led to the selection of the spot for the stage, a situation from which the christening of the class tree could be seen by the audience without a change of position. The stage was at the edge of the trees, midway between the College Building and Dr. Gallaudet's home, and facing the main gates.

The progam opened by an address of welcome by the class president, Philip Earl Cadwell. Dr. Gallaudet addressed the class in a happy manner, making but slight reference to the fact that this was the last of the long line of classes to have him address them from his position as president.

Miss Roath's quaint delivery of extracts from the historical events of the five years' struggle for degrees was one of the pleasing features of the afternoon. Mr. Toomey followed with a humorous prophecy for each member, after which Miss Thiessen acted as executor of the last will and testament, having something for almost everybody. The legacies were laughable in the extreme. The program then closed with a song, "I Serve", gracefully delivered by Miss Lewis. The class then acted the host, serving delicious refreshments to all in attendance.

Friday night was the Presentation Hop, the social event of the year on Kendall Green. It is well know that every suecessive commitiee on the hop tries to out-do the ones of former years in everything pertaining to the general success of the occasion. This year was no exception, and we can truthfully say that in some respects the latest committee excelled former ones. In the first place, since the hop was given by the undergraduates, the members of the Senior Class were invited in the formal way, something overlooked in past years.

The gymnasium was the garden spot on Kendall Gareen that night. Never in recent years has the building presented a more beautiful appearance. Simplicity was the keynote in all the decorations, and as usual simplicity won out over the elaborate.

There was a large attendance of outside guests; everybody seemed happy, which fact alone is enough to make the committee pat itself on the back.

At the intermission, at eleven o'clock, the guests all streamed for the chapel where they partook of refreshments of cream and cakes. The dance was then resumed, ending at last after the bell in the old tower had banged out the hour of one, twenty-four numbers and five extras having been carried out.

The committee on the hop was composed of: Messrs. Nies, Chairman, Morris, Elmer, '11; Anderson, Gardner, Schaefer, '12; Farquhar, Bowen, Hughes, '13.

Miss Kilgore and Mr. Cooper, '08, came over from Baltimore to attend the Hop.

Mr. and Mrs. Sonneborn, Mrs. Simonson and Mrs. Frankenheim, of New York, friends of Mr. Edwin Nies, '11, attended the Hop.

ATHETICS.

After all the social events of the week, you will be surprised to learn that we had any time for baseball. And there is another surprise coming when you see what the baseball boys accomplished in the way of picking plums.

First of all, firstly, let us begin with the game with the Georgetown Preps. last Monday. The Preps. have a pretty strong team this year, and after making an excellent showing against the high schools, had hopes of a victory over the one and only Gallaudet bunch of diamond gamboliers. They started out like they meant to do it, too, getting a lead in the opening inning, and blanking the home team. However, as the game progressed, there was a quick reversal of the status quo, and the embryo collegians with the excessive ambition promptly climbed in the balloon and ascended for a bird's-eye view of their own slaughter. It was scandalous the way those little fellows were treated for a while.

Maxson was tried in the box for the first time since donning a Gallaudet uniform, and acquitted himself aud his teammates in a very creditable manner, holding the Preps, down to eleven hits, some of which can be ascribed to lax support that cropped out at times in the men behind him. The final score was 11 to 6, the Preps., of course, falling heir to the six.

Gallaudet 6 Catholic University 1

Gallaudet defeated Catholic University Saturday afternoon, on Kendall Green, by the convincing score of 6 to 1.

The contest was one of the most exciting ever seen on Kendall Green diamond. From the debut of Devries with his beautiful triple and cleverly executed downfall at the plate till the umpire's decision sounded the knell of the last man up in the ninth, the spectators had all they could carry home in the way of extremely pleasurable fanatic emotion. The Catholic University team journeyed over to Gallaudet with a record of fifteen victories out of sixteen games played this season. Gallaudet has shown good form only upon one occasion this year, hence the outcome of Saturday's contest is all the more surprising and gratifying to Gallaudet men.

Dillon, our veteran left hander, who has always been a stumbling block to the Catholics, was sent in to pitch, and proved himself master of the men who have been feasting on the best pitchers all the colleges in the East could send up against them. Hatcher started out in the box for C. U. and was effective until the fourth inning, when Capt. Hower's batsmen began to find the tender spots in the tall boy's pet shoots. In the fifth he was replaced by Green, the best pitcher the Brookland team has, who was somewhat better, but was unable to save the game.

It was anybody's game until the fourth, both teams going it neck and neck. When Gallaudet's turn came in this inning, Battiste opened the joyous dance by slamming the leather to center. Blanchard beat out an intended sacrifice bunt. Craven put a teaser where there wasn't anybody to handle it, thus filling the bases. Hatcher hit Durian in the short ribs, forcing Battiste in. Blanchard was caught trying to score on Dillon's long out to center. Rockwell hit through second, scoring Craven. Morris was an easy out. Again in the fifth Gallaudet had three on the bases and only one out. Durian put a beautiful fly where the right fielder couldn't get it, bringing in Arras and Battiste. Here Green replaced Hatcher.

In the sixth Rockwell put one over the right field embankment for a triple. McGeady's bad throw allowed him to come in. Battiste completed the scoring for the side by adding another in the seventh.

The Brookland boys' one run was the result of Tobin's hitting out a triple in the sixth, coming in on Rockwell's error in handling a throw-in after Hessler's easy infield tap. At other times, they couldn't do much with Dillon, who was well supported by the team.

HARTFORD.

At the Episcopal Church service, in Bridgeport, Sunday evening of May 15th, Rev. J. H. Keiser, of St. Ann's Church, New York, will preach.

Mr. Edgar Luther has had an offer of a job, in New Jersey, near his parents' home, but has declined it after some hesitation. He is employed here at Underwood Company, manufacturers of the well-known typewriting machines.

Miss Mary E. Atkinson spent Saturday, May 7th, at her mother's, Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson, 65 Lincoln Street, New Britain

Miss Carrie Rock, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Rock, has returned to her work as telephone operator, at the Hartford Police Station, after an absence of a month on account of illness.

Among recent visitors from out of town were John Moran, Miss Katherine Welsh, and Mr. and Mrs. Cephos Perrault, all of New Britain.

Mr. E. A. Shurr, if we have the name correctly, and who is a good friend of the pupils at the school, took some fifty of the older boys and girls for an afternoon's tramp and study in the woods out Cedar Hill way, last Friday, May 6th. The occasion was much enjoyed by the pupils. Many of whom returned to the school with bunches of flowers and shrubs they had gathered. The trip was for observation and study of nature. Surely, we deaf folks find much in nature that appeals to us. The trees themselves make such graceful signs when the spirit of the winds more upon them! And all nature's fine forms, outlines and her wondrous colors appeal to us.

By the way, speaking of Nature—does she not speak almost exclusively by signs anyway? One wonders of our earnest and determined oral teachers and advocates may not some day have a course of study for us poor deaf folks to read lips of animals, and the clouds when they thunder. Surely, here is a field for our oralists friends to develop. We humbly offer them this suggestion hoping us shall not be abused for it by the advocates of the "oral method," or the "combined method," or any other.

A deaf man named Curran, alias Armstrong, was arrested here in Hartford again last Thursday night. He was intoxicated and went about making signs in a crazy way, scaring people. A policeman collared him, shook him, thumped him once a twice with his club to quiet him down. Saturday morning his case came up for trial. Prof. A. S. Clark of the school, a wise friend of the daaf, was present, and appealed to the judge that Mr. Curran be sent to the almshouse for a year or two, as his circumstances were unfortunate, and a jail sentence of a month would do no good. The judge took the matter under consideration, postponing his decision till May 10th.

Saturday evening, May 7th, the fraternity men had a meeting and a smoker at the I. O. O. F. Hall, in New Haven. Some forty or more were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Holt, have moved from Bishop Street to 1599 West Chapel Street, out near the Yale field.

Mrs. Harriet Wheeler is visiting friends in New York and New Rochelle for a fortnight or more.

Rev. John Chamberlain, D.D., of St. Ann's Church, will assist Bishop Brewster, of Connecticut, at an ordination of priests, at Ascension Church, New Haven, at 10:30 A.M., May 25th.

Mr. Wm. F. Genet, of Thomaston, was in Waterbury for a visit, Sunday of May 8th. Mr. Genet has worked for one firm of clock makers in Thomaston, for twenty-five years or more, and has a home of his own with land all paid for. His wife was Mary C. Green, and a classmate at the New York Institute. Both were there when the second Dr. Peet was principal.

Gilbert Marshall, of Derby, was calling on friends in Waterbury, Sunday of May 1st.

Mrs. Charles Saxe, of Waterbury, has moved into rooms od Franklin Street.

The oldest daughter of Prof. and Mrs J. E. Crane graduates this coming month of June, from the State Normal School for Teacher at New Britain. She has taken the full course, and if hereditary counts, she ought to make a very success ful teacher.

There are rumors that one of our leading deaf yonng men, a graduate of the Northampton, Mass. School, whom the Hartford deaf have taught to make signs almost as prettily as we do ourselves, is to be married. Wise man! If you get a good girl, young men, and have a paying job, the sooner some of the rest of you young men hereabouts get married and have a nice comfortable home of your own, the better you will be and the happier you will live. Bachelordom is a poor way to live and tends to crankiness and a lonely, morbid old age. Marriage with the right kind of woman deepens a man's life, refines him, steadies him, aud makes him a more reliable citizen. It is wiser thus to marry. It is a law of God and of civilization, and when both God and man in general are agreed about a course of life, that is incontestable evidence of its wisdom.

The last meeting of the Cogswell Literary Society for the season will be held in the parish room of Christ's Episcopal Church, Friday evening, March 20th, beginning at 8 o'clock. Mr. E. A. Hodgson, editor of the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, will be present. There will be a reading by Miss Atkinson, addresses by Professors Crane and Stone, and by Mr. Hodgson.

The Girls Friendly Society will serve strawberry ice cream and cake. The deaf of Hartford and vicinity are cordially invited.

Among others from out of town have been calling on friends in Hartford, recently are Miss Katherine Walsh, Mr. John Moran, and Mr. and Mrs. Clephos Perrault, of New Britain.

ST. LOUIS.

J. H. May,—5851 Von Versen Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Youngberg, of Alton, were in the city for several days last week, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sutton.

Thursday afternoon, the 5th inst., a birthday party was given in honor, of the sixty-eighth milestone of Mrs. P. A. Kyle's natal day. A number of selected lady friends had gathered at Mrs. Kyle's house early in the afternoon. They all brought useful gifts. Those present: Mesdames Berry, Pancake, Froning; Fisher, Kohlmeyer, Trapp, and Dieckmann, Misses Pearce and Kellermann.

St. Thomas' Mission will give their annual supper at 1210 Locust Street, on Saturday evening, June 4th.

Sunday afternoon, May 1st, a confirmation ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, in St. Charles, Mo. Rev. Schubkegel, of this city had been examining and preparing Mrs. Meyer to become a member of the Lutheran Church. Church services were also held at the house, and the following deaf were witnesses: Mrs. Kugelman and Misses Mahon and Latry, Messrs. Pundmann and Denningman and ye scribe. A number of hearing friends and relatives were also on hand. Rev. Schubkegel spoke orally for the hearing people, while at the same time he used signs for our benefit.

We received word to the effect that Joseph Kitzeiner, (late of this city,) bnt now live in Bellingham, Washington, met with a very painful accident. While travelling on a trolley car in a certain city in that State, the car overturned, badly injuring him, so that he was confined indoors for a long time. He entered suit for damages and hopes to get something.

Sunday, May 1st, Henry McCamley departed on the Gray Eagle for a trip down the Mississippi River. He went for the purpose of seeing the "City of Providence," a large steamboat that was wrecked by ice last winter. The boat had been in service twenty-nine years.

Henry McCamley departs Sunday, May 15th, for a sixty-mile pleasure trip down the "Father of Rivers."

Mr. Chas. Comp, of Omaha, Neb., arrived here last week for several days' stay. Friday evening, he appeared at 1210 Locust, and tried to explain and also interest us about the United Wireless Telegraph Company. He is a stockholder therein, owning thirty-three shares.

L. A. Froning, employed by a well-known firm, manufacturing brewery and saloon fixtures, has gone out with the other employes on a strike for more wages.

Miss May Berry received a beautiful white pup from a friend. The pup is of fancy breed, being a fox-terrier that was sired by a dog that won a prize at the great dog show, exhibited here at the Coliseum recently.

Mrs. Cupps is planning for a visit to her two sisters, living in Council Bluffs, Ia., in the near future. She will also visit her folks in Des Moines, Ia.

One day last week Geo. W. Clark found a good ball at the Pullman car shops. He decided to take it home and giye it to his little boy.

Scales for weighing diamonds are so delicately poised that an eyelash will turn the balance.

NEW YORK.

A Picnic Under Gaslight! Ever been to one? No; well, meander over to St. Ann's Church, Wednesday evening, May 18th, at eight o'clock, and see how real jolly such a picnic can be. Of course, the grassy sward and cool shades of leafy trees will be missed, but then so will the obtrusive bugs and the hairy caterpillars and the mosquitoes. Otherwise it will be a heap sight jollier. There will be dancing, the barn dance will be a favorite, plenty of room for the waltz and two-step, with a lively Virginia reel or two to round out the program. Games enough to send the sluggish blood romping through these old arteries, and to cap the climax of the evening there will be boxes of picnic lunch to devour when appetites are sufficiently whetted. No, you won't snuggle up to your best girl and munch sandwiches and hard boiled eggs and succulent Dill pickles. Far from it. The ladies will bring lunch along—big boxes of eatables, turn them over to the committee who will number them. The men will fork over fifteen cents as the price of admission, and then we'll draw slips and get the girl and the lunch. Its sure to be some other fellow's girl, but that only adds zest to the occasion Fancy eating a nice bunch which Mayme packed especially for Willie, and then have Mayme paired off with Harry, and watch Willie glare at the two. Its sure to be a great treat, so come along. The comet will be a brilliant sight in the western sky that evening, and telescopes will perhaps be furnished, "free gratis, for nothing."

The Xavier Club will have its annual session with strawberries and cream as the main issue on June 19th. So it was announced at the regular business meeting May 4th. Mr. Thomaso Grogan, having cleared the Collier's imposing stones of an extra run of book lore in the way of linotype slugs, leads, chases, reglets and "coins," will again assume charge of entertainment affairs. A good time is about the least to be expected, the committee having a new wrinkle in the entertainment line stored away for an added feature to the evening.

At the meeting, President Hugo Schmidt presiding, the endorsement of Mr. John F. O'Brien as delegate to the National Convention was an item of business that met with an unanimous vote. The Xavier Ephpheta Society Board of Governors added their endorsement to his candidacy as the organization's representative at a meeting some months ago. Speaking for himself, Mr. O'Brien says he appreciates the endorsement and hopes to confer honor upon himself and the Catholic deaf of New York whom he will represent.

Rev. Dr J. L. Magnes will deliver the sermon before the Hebrew Congregation of the Deaf at Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and 43d Street, of which he is the Associate Rabbi, this Friday evening, the thirteenth. Dr. Magnes is one of the most prominent of the younger generation of Ministers in the United States and occupies an envious position scarcely attained by anyone of his age. He will shortly sail for Europe and the Holy Land on an important mission. We urge all the Jewish deaf to attend the services at aforesaid Temple this Friday en masse. His sermon is bound to make an indelible impression on all those who are fortunate to hear him. Doors open at 8 P. M; services start at 8:30. Geo. Rosenfeld, Esq, President of the Lexington Avenue School, and Mr. H. C. Harris, a young U. of P. graduate who is likely to loom up as our a future Rabbi, will be among those present. Visitors, deaf and hearing, are cordially welcome.

A "Dance," with fine music, of the informal kind, mind you, where unthwarted by the requirements and exactions of Society or the gaze of the curious you can fling "conventionalities" to the four winds and thoroughly enjoy yourselves, will be held at the rooms of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, 139—143 West 125th, Street on the evening of Saturday, May 14th, 1910. This is extended as a sort of "home affair" and the capacity of the club room will of necessity be limited to about two hundred persons. Admission, which also includes refreshments, is only thirty-five cents. The Committee in charge, headed by Mr. Felix A. Simonson, have made all necessary arrangements looking to an enjoyable evening for those who intend to be present.

C. E. Vernon had been to four card parties this season, and won a prize in each party, that is four prizes straight. But very little more than the honor of winning accompanied his victories—i.e., a pair of silver tipped salt and pepper set vignette metal picture frame. The first prize was won at the Union League "Hearts;" the second Union League Whist; third, the Lady Victory Euchre; four, the Acorn Whist Party. Of course, Christian goes to play cards at his friends evenings, put these above were the last four public parties he attended.

That the New York deaf are in the main enjoying a fair share of good times is best evidenced by the increasing flotilla of motor boats registered in their names. The latest is Wm. Gaunt, a Collier Publishing House employee, and a former Fanwood boy. He is now over-hauling at a 20-foot launch. Other launch owners are: Messrs. Grogan and Hamilton, Garbarani, Ryan and Franks. And others are contemplating additions to the fleet of pleasure craft.

Attention, ye seekers of pleasure! Look forward to the forthcoming, function of the Borough Park Deaf-Mutes Society to be held at Borough Park Clubhouse, 13th Ave and 50th St. Brooklyn, on Saturday evening, May 14th. Several good prizes will be given to winners of old and new fashioned games. Look up the advertisement appearing on the last page of this paper for particulars.

A baby-girl made its debut in the household of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Donnell April 24th June 8th the little lady was christened Helen Mary, the church ceremony being followed by a general good time at the O'Donnell home, at which were present a large party of relatives and friends of the happy father and mother.

Before a throng of nine thousand people, President Taft formally opened the Actors' Fund Fair at Madison Square Garden, last Monday. It will continue through the week. Among the ladies who are helping the Fair is Miss Helen Meinken, who tends the lace dress booth. Miss Meinken has been on the stage four years, and is a beautiful brunette with decided talent.

On Saturday evening, May 7th, a social party was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs Robert Patterson, in Brooklyn, under the management of Miss Norbitt. Games and dancing were indulged in, and bountiful refreshments served The guests dispersed at midnight after wishing their host and hostess all the good things that life can bring.

Dr. Lesser, father of our own Mr. Monæ Lesser, is a veteran of the Civil War and an Honorary Member of the Seventy-First Regiment, and that accounts for the rare privilege Monæ enjoyed at the Exhibition Drill given before Prince Tao and Lord Li and the other high and mighty functionaries of the Chinese Empire. Monæ was in a box quite close to that of the royal entourage.

The new officers of the New Jersey Deaf-Mute Society were recently installed, with a banquet as follows: President, J. Black; Vice-President, A. Kuipe; Recording Secretary, R. M. Robertson; Financial Secretary, J. B. Ward; Treasurer, Charles Casella; Messrs. Paul Kees, W. Atkinson and G Matzart, Executive Commitee.

At the regular monthly meeting, of Brooklyn Division 23, N. F. S. D., held last Saturday evening with very large attendance, visiting Bros. (Rev) J. M. Koehler, of Olathe (Kansas) division, and Worcester, of New Haven Division, gave interesting talks at the conclusion of the routine work.

The last "social evening" in the Guild Room of St. Ann's was an exceptional success in the way of enjoyment. There was dancing and games, followed by a dainty collation, the piece de resistance being strawberry short cake. Mr. Abrams was in charge and added to his laurels as an entertainer.

Wm. Hanley, "the Xavier Taft," went on the "Angler," and with such a load the boat could not go out farther them Rockaway Inlet. The Captain blamed the weather. The Hanley said it was hard work to pull up the five lines that he got as the deck was always on a steep angle.

David Simmons, a graduate of the Trenton, N J., Institution, is a frequent visitor in New York. He holds a steady position in Rahway, N. J., as a linotype operator. He learned the printing business under Mr. George S. Porter.

Last Tuesday a German deaf-mute recently lauded in New York, named Richard Gruetzmacher, an engineer by occupation, visited the Lipgens Villa in East Orange.

The New Jersey Deaf-Mute Society, of Newark, N. J., has secured "Arion Hall," in Newark, N. J., for a Masquerade Ball on February 21st, 1911.

Wanted.

A gentleman and wife, for the positions of superintendent and matron, respectively, of the Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf at Doylestown, Penn. One or the other must be able to use the sign-language or the manual alphabet.

Applications for the position of superintendent only will also be received.

[News items for this column may be sent to our Ohio News Bureau, care of Mr. A. B. Greener, 993 Franklin Ave., Columbus, O.

May 7, 1910.—Last evening friends to the number of twenty-five or more gathered to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Ohlemacher to give him a "send off" preparatory of his leaving for the far west to work as a Civil Engineer. Among the guests was Miss Amabell Kent, who reached the city during the week from Los Angeles and Chicago and is stopping with the Zells for a couple of weeks before going to her home in New Jersey. During the evening, the company was turned into an Art Class and judging from the work done, they were not apt pupils. The person naming correctly the most names of the animals drawn was to receive a prize. Thirty tried their hand at the work and some ludicrous scrawlings were the results. Out of the twenty-eight drawings, Miss Bessie Edgar named fourteen correctly and was given a pear full of sweets. Mr. Ohlemacher was then called upon explain how, he came to hie himself off and away from his Buckeye friends for the summer. Mr. Greener was called upon to give him some advice as the to place was he going and what to expect, while Miss Edgar cautioned in a jocose vein, what and not to do, and especially not to load himself down with rocks that glitter supposing them to contain gold. Light refreshments were then served, and in departing, Mr. Ohlemacher was showered with well wishes. He leaves to-morrow evening, for Newmire, San Miguel County, Col., where he will assist Mr. J. C. Simmons, a U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor in civil and mining engineering during the summer. Mr. Simmons was in need of an assistant, and through Mr McGregor's recommendations, he chose Mr. Ohlemacher. The latter had been preparing himself for the work for some time past. Mr. Ohlemacher, as physical director of the school here, has a vacation from May 1st to November 1st and, hence the work will not interfere with his duties at the school. On the way west, he will stop at Chicago, Council Bluffs, and at a relative's in Iowa, and also visit the Colorado Springs School. By the way Mr Simmons is a half Buckeye, for his helpmeet was educated at the school here.

The Columbus Advance Society, at its meeting, Tuesday evening, received and accepted reports from several committees. The visiting and purchasing committee for the Home was empowered to have the Assembly room repapered. It was voted to make a donation of $10 for contest prizes on the visit of the Alumni Association to the Home during the reunion.

Mr. Neutzling of the Committee for the Annual Pic-nic, May 30th, at the Home announced the various committees and their duties, and the Society voted five dollars to be given for contest prizes on the occasion.

Saturday evening last, Mr. Davie Friedman gave the Cleveland Association members, at Goodrich House, a lecture on the Heavenly Bodies and did it in such a fine style that all in attendance appreciated it immensely. Mr. Friedman was assisted in illustrating his lecture by Mr Rettig, City Engineer of Parks, who kindly manipulated the stereopticon machine. There were views of the planets, nebulæ and eclipses. Through Artist Krull drawings were given on large black pasteboard to simplify matters. A sample of meteorite was shown. To add to the interest of the occasion, Mrs. John Boettner as Urania, and garbed in the dress of a star queen, rendered a story from Flammarion's Urania. She was highly praised for her efforts in the line.

The Association has gotten out a neat little folio giving the dates for lectures and entertainments for the year, also committees for each. For to-night Mr. McGregor is booked to give his reading of "The Helmet of Navarre." He left last night for Cleveland, and will surely be at the Association rooms on time and give all who attend more than their money's worth. For May 28th, Mr. C. R. Neillie is down for a lecture on the Earth. He will be assisted by a number of others to illustrate his talk.

The Rev. Mr. Mann has gladly accepted the invitation of the Cleveland Association of the Deaf, and will give a talk on the Campaign of Waterloo on Saturday evening, June 25th, at Goodrich House, 612 St. Clair Avenue. He visited the famous field of battle twice,—in 1894 and 1897. A diagram will be used to show the positions of the French, English and German Armies.

All the Ohio Episcopal Missions for the Deaf have made good their pledges towards Diocesan Missions for the year between May 1st, 1909, and May 1st, 1910. They have also contributed to General Missions, by sending money to Mr. George Gordon King, Treasurer at the Missions House, New York City. The pledges were made by the Rev. Mr. Mann. They will be renewed.

The Hancock County Court has granted a divorce to Mrs. Minnie Black from Ray M. Black, on the ground of wilful absence for three years. Plantiff is to pay cost, and is restored to her maiden name, Minnie McClannahan.

Superintendent Jones returned from his eastern trip, Monday night, feeling the better for it. At the teachers' meeting, yesterday afternoon, he gave some observations of the school work seen. He had nothing but praise for the managements who entertained him. Little was to be seen at the Lexington School, New York, as it was closed for vacation, and the Principal with his "newly wed" away in Maine on a honeymoon.

Miss Carrie Lingle, of Dayton, was in the city a few days this week, the guest of the Ohlemachers. She was a caller at the school on the day of her return home, and her old friends were glad to meet her again.

The Dayton Advance Society will have a social on the evening of May 28th, at the home of Mr. James H. Smith and the members extend a cordial invitation to the deaf of the city and outsiders to attend.

The firm which has employed Mr. James H. Smith for a number of years as stock keeper, recently promoted him to take charge of the main stock room, because of faithfulness in his work.

Mrs. J. M. Shepherd, nee Katie Fox, of Dayton, with her little son, has gone to Marysville, Ohio, to visit her mother for a month or two.

The festive burglar made a visit to the home of Joe Himelspaugh recently, and got away with fourteen dollars, not Joe's, but Henry Vollmer who rooms in the house. The family was away at the time of the intrusion.

We ride again. The strike, through Mayor Marshall and several business men come to a conclusion, Thursday morning, and now matters are running as smoothly as if there had been no strike. However, the city is out about $1,500 out on account of expenses thereto, while the men and the Company suffer a loss of about $50,000 from loss of fares, work and destruction of property by hoodlums and sympathizers.

Although the State bindery has been at the school since 1868, not until this week had it a safe in which to keep valuable records and stock-gold-leaf.

The new Trinity Parish House was opened, last Monday evening, with a meeting in the church, where the dedicating exercises were held, after which those present inspected the rooms and furnishings. The latter are made of modern design and the building cost nearly $80,000. Luncheon was served in the evening. Those of the deaf who attend the services at Trinity Church were cordially invited by the rector to attend the opening exercises.

Poor playing or ill luck seems to be in the way of the Independents, for thus far they have not been able to win a game from their opponents. The last one, with the M. C. Lilley Club, ended 16 to 1 in favor of the Lilley boys.

MISS M. E. ATKINSON.
Treasurer for the State of Connecticut.

Aaron Witmeyer

Aaron Witmeyer died very peacefully at the home of his son in South Norwalk, Ct., February 18th, 1910. His death being due to asthma and other complications, aged 69 years, seventeen days. He was sick and unable to do any thing for six mouths, such a great patient, never complaining one word and happily awaiting for the end.

Deceased was born in Manheim, Pa., educated in the Philadelphia Institution on Broad Street, and like his father, was wheel-wright by trade. He was a resident in Lancoster and Manheim prior to about seventeen years when with his family he moved to Stamford, Ct. He was a member of the Episcopial Church. He is survived by his wife and son, Samuel, who is manager of the Biscuit Company. The funeral was held February 21st, at St. Andrew Episcopal Church, Stamford, Ct.

PHILADELPHIA.

ALLENTOWN, PA., May 7.—Judge Trexler to-day granted a perliminary injunction until a hearing to be held next Tuesday, in a case in equity brought by four deaf-mutes, Mrs. Maria E. Arnold and Mrs. Martha A. Meyer and their husbands, against Arthur L. Biery, who, they declare, in a bill of particulars, has secured possession of their farm of 71 acres and has appropriated to his own use the funds realized from the sale of their lands. The property in question is valued at about $200,000. Mr. Biery, who is a son of the late former Congressman James L. Biery, was their attorney for seven years.

Several months ago they sold a tract to Muhlenberg College as a site for a new preparatory school for $13,544. Of this sum they say they got only $1,500, and declare that the remainder was deposited in bank, not in their names, according to their instructions, but in Mr. Biery's own name, and that he is drawing from it for his own benefit.

They state that on March 24th, the defendant, by making them believe in the sign language that their signatures were necessary to a document he had in hand to complete the Muhlenberg College transaction, secured from them fraudulently a deed in fee simple for all the rest of their property. They have now come to realize that the paper he then gave was his personal bond for $1700 in full payment for for lands which they claim are worth about $200,000.

Mr. Biery, in explanation, states that his late father had an agreement with the father of the two deaf-mute women to buy his property at the rate of $300 an acre, which was the value of the farm at the time this agreement was made. He adds that the transactions following the sale of a part the property to Muhlenberg College were the carrying out of the agreement between the fathers of the present litigants."

Mr. James T. Young was given a surprise party in honor of his birthday on Saturday evening, ninth of May. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Kate Hoopes and turned out very successful and enjoyable, Mr. Young being caught unprepared for such large company. His stock of pipes was increased by six, and it will not be necessary for him to visit a tobacco store for some time to come. The evening was spent in playing games and partaking of refreshments Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James T. Young, Mr and Mrs. Frank Jones, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Wilson, and children, Mr. and Mrs. Greensbury Warrington and children, Mr. and Mrs. George Brantis, Mrs. Edna L. Seivert, Mrs. Emma Hannold, Mrs. Kate Hoopes, Lewis Hower, and the Misses Lena Matzner, Gertrude Robb and Mary Mulcahy,

Mr. Washington Houston is not around yet. It is nearly two months now since he was injured by a trolley car during the strike. He is compelled to wear crutches yet. His left ankle which was badly sprained is giving him the most trouble. He will probably be able to go out in a few weeks.

We would remind the local deaf of the entertainment and tableaux at All Souls' Hall next Saturday evening, May 14th. It will be for the benefit of the Home, and admission will be fifteen cents.

The following events are scheduled by the Clere Literary Association:—

May 12th. Illustrated lecture on "Old Mexico," by Mr. Samuel Frankenheim, of New York.

May 19th. Lecture by Prof. Rowland B. Lloyd, of the Trenton School.

May 26th. Social.

The Men's Club of All Souls' Church will hold its annual election of officers on Tuesday evening, May 17th.

Mrs. Kate Hoopes was called to Harrisburg, last week, by the death of a sister. She left on Tuesday and returned the following Saturday. Burial was at Columbia.

Chas. Goelitz, of Trenton, N. J., was a visitor at All Souls' last Sunday, 8th.

Mr. William F. Irvin, of Slatington, is working at his old place in Camden, N. J., and will bring his family back soon.

Mrs. Charles M. Pennell, her sister Gertie and two neices, Viola and Katie, attended the funeral of Mrs. Pennel's little niece at Atlantic City last Thurday. They returned home the same day.

Taking advantage of a dollar excursion several deaf-mutes of Allentown came down to Philadelphia last Sunday, and visited All Souls' Church. The rain made others give up the trip. Those who came were Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Krause and their adopted nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradbury and their oldest daughter, Mr. George Lentz, and Frank Schamweiler. They returned home the same day.

The Ladies of All Souls, Parish will give a Strawberry Festival at the Church on Saturday evening, June 4th.

Mr. R. M. Ziegler, by invitation, lectured on "The True William Penn," before the Grace Church Mission for the Deaf in Baltimore, on Thursday evening, May 5th. He reports an enjoyable visit.

PITTSBURG.

When an intoxicated robber and the deaf and dumb assistant stewart of the Moose Club, in Chartiers Avenue, McKees Rocks, came together at an early hour yesterday morning, history was made fast and furiously. Both will bear the marks of it for some days.

The robber had found everything so much his own way when he entered the club that it was not long until he lapsed into such a state of intoxication on stolen liquors that she got to looking upon himself as the real lord of the manor. Ergo, when the snores of Edward McDonald, the assistant steward, who occupies a room in the building, were heard, the interloper took umbrage, same as he had been taking everything else, and started in to investigate. It was not long until he located McDonald, who converses only in the sign language and the assistant steward signaled to know what was up. The robber's answer, it is presumed—as there were unmistakable signs of misunderstanding—was a demand to know where any other valuables might be located. Failure of McDonald to speak appears to have been taken by the robber as a sign of rebellion, for he began hurling things at him.

McDonald is no slouch himself when it comes to hurling missiles, and he sent an old shoe singing into the face of the robber. The latter fought in on him, and both clinched. What followed is best read, according to the police, in the face of McDonald, which was inscribed with two blackened eyes and slashes on the cheeks. He made signs that the robber's face also was ornamented with Italian sunsets about the eyes, and that his countenance generally would be found in need of repairs—when the officers came across him.

But there was one thing of which McDonald was certain—the hiding place of the valuables had not been revealed. The only laugh the victim took was over the prospects of the robber's not understanding even if he had told him—in his way. But few robbors know the sign language. The robber made a good escape.

May 20th is the ordination of Mr. B. R. Allabough by Bishop Whitehead, at St. Stephen's Church in Wilkinsburg, Pa., (Franklin Street and Pitt Street.) The services will begin at 9:30 A.M. In the evening at 7:30 will be the Missionary Services, in which we expect Rev. Dantzer, Rev. Flick, Rev. Mann, Rev. Whildin, Rev. Smielau, Rev. Chamberlain, and others to take part in, and at the close of the services, there will be a reception in the Parish House at 8:30 P.M.

This event will be a memorable one in the social history of the deaf in this city. Everybody is invited to attend the services and the reception.

Embrew Bernsdorff was in this city for a week, before he returned to Washington, D. C. Something attracted him to come here, and many friends were delighted to meet the "old boy" of Western Pennsylvania.

Miss Marion Hall, who had been living in Pittsburg for the last four years, decided to dust off the dust of Pittsburg and went home to Nebraska, where she expects to regain her health. Friends do hope that the change will benefit her health.

Mrs. Harry Bulger went out motoring with her aunt in the evening, and this put her out of the way, enabling Mr. and Mrs. H. Bellows to usher in a surprise party. Mrs. Bulger walked into the dining room, and was in the arms of her husband. The light was turned on and she was entirely surprised to see many faces around her. It was a perfect surprise, so arranged to perfection by Mr. and Mrs. Bellows. Many beautiful presents were opened and shown. Story telling occupied most of the time. Among those who were present were Mrs Brandt and family, Mrs. I. Sawhill, Mrs. L. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. E Havens, Miss M. Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Messrs. Allabough. W. Durian, R. Durian, F. Gray; Brown, and others.

Manager J. Friend, of the Pittsburg Deaf-Mute Baseball Club is now happy. His club won the game from the Munhall Fire Engine Co. by a score of 8 to 7, on April 30th, and also defeated the Wilmerding Athletic Club by a score of 22 to 12 last Saturday. The team is getting into good form.

The Gallaudetians of this city are surprised to know of the resignation of Dr. E. M. Gallaudet, and expressed their appreciations of the services Dr. Gallaudet had done for the College and for the deaf in general. They are satisfied with the appointment of Prof. Percival Hall, who is a capable man to succeed Dr. Gallaudet, and wish Prof. Hall prosperity in his new office.

A "Box-Social" was well-attended by the deaf-mutes at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Annis, for the benefit of the Doylestown Home. Each lady brought a box of tempting eatables, and the gentlemen bought them, and then they spent in eating, drinking and merriment. Mrs. H. Bardes furnished a beautiful basket—the best of all—consisting of bountiful things, which already fed three persons.

CHICAGO.

The Chicago column has been conspicuous by its absence for quite a spell, not because there was "nothing doing" around here, but as far as I can learn the reason is that it is difficult to get writers in line. It certainly is too bad, for Chicago ought to have a regular correspondent in order to let the other cities know that we are as much in "the swim" as they are, socially speaking.

Naturally the first thing Chicago subscribers of the JOURNAL do upon the receipt of their favorite paper is to look up the Chicago column. Its failure to materalize causes some disappointment.

There have been several "doings" among the deaf circles recently that are worthy of being chronicled, and for the lack of a better man to wield his pencil, I am taking the initiative as well as the liberty.

The Whist Party, as originated by Mrs. Henrietta Lefi at her home on Grand Boulevard for the benefit of the Illinois Home Fund, on the evening of April 23d, was a successful affair. Thirty-six devotees participated in the games. A few uninitiated ones were onlookers and by their presence, the coffers of the Home Fund were materially enriched. Prizes were given to those making highest scores. The ones for ladies were won by Mesdames Codman and Boss, while those for gentlemen were captured by Messrs. Sonneborn and Tomlinson. The prizes were donated by Mrs. Lefi, and at the conclusion of the games, the guests were treated to delicious ice-cream and cakes. Quite a sum was realized for the Home Fund.

Mrs. Tilley, of San Francisco, who has been wintering at Palm Beach, Fla., stopped in Chicago a couple of days en route home. While here she was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Buchan.

Miss Annabelle Kent is another visitor in Chicago, coming from Los Angeles, Cal., where she spent some time. After tarrying a week, left on May 5th for Ohio. While here, a reception was tendered her at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Boss.

Mr. Horace Buell, the worthy financial secretary of the Pas-a-Pas Club, has been confined to his bed for two weeks with a bad case of mumps, but at this writing is himself again.

Mr. Alfred Liebenstein, one of the most popular members of the Pas-a-Pas Club, was operated upon at the Michel Reese Hospital recently, which necessitated his confinement there for three weeks. The operation was a success, and now Alfred is again mingling with us, looking much better. A suspicious tinge of red adorns his cheeks.

Mr. B. F. Jackson, formerly of Colorado, is the latest addition to our set, and has secured the position of assistant to a plaster contractor. He has done the right thing by applying for membership in the Pas-a-Pas Club. No doubt he will be welcomed.

The JOURNAL cartoons have provoked much laughted among us. The one on April 28th, showing the huge form of our "Reggy" under cover holding out his hands toward a serious and suspicious looking Uncle Sam, evidently expecting the "glad hand" was quite amusing. Cheer up, Reggy, for in this "era of hypocrisy, hysteria and graft," no honest man need fear cartoons.

A Stork Shower at the home of Miss Beulah Christal, formerly of Texas, for Mrs. Ernest Craig, was held on Saturday, May 7th. Quite a number of ladies were present, which attests the popularity of Mrs. Craig.

Rev. George F. Flick, who has the charge of "All Angels' Mission of the Deaf" at 1439 Wabash Ave., announces that the Mission will hold a May Festival and a Cup and Saucer Sale in the Parish House, Saturday evening, at eight o'clock, May 14th. All are welcome.

Rev. J. H. Cloud, of St Louis, will hold a service at all Angels' Mission Sunday, May 22d, at 3 P.M.

Rev. Austin W. Mann, of Cleveland, Ohio, is scheduled to give a lecture on "The Campaign of Waterloo," Saturday evening June 4th, at eight o'clock.

Rev. P. J. Hasenstab leaves on May 6th, for a Missionary tour, covering several States terminating at Austin, Texas, on the extreme South, returning via Oklahoma, Kansas, and Missouri. During his absence, Rev. H. S. Rutherford will hold Sabbath services in his stead, at the lecture room of the First M. E. Church.

The Pas-a Pas Club will hold its annual picnic at Lake George, Hammond, Indiana, on Saturday, July 30th. Mr. Fred Curtis is Chairman of the Committee, ably assisted by several youngsters. There will be athletic games, dancing, boating and fishing. A hearty welcome is extended to all.

President Dougherty, of the Pas-a-Pas Club Literary Circle, announces a "Treat" in store at the next meeting, on Saturday evening, May 21st. Some unknown and unheralded ones are prepared to spring a surprise.

The Pas-a-Pas Club will have an Outing at Ogden Park, afternoon and evening, of May 28th.

FANWOOD.

The members of the Seventh Male Grade visited Bronx Park last Tuesday. At one o'clock, in company of Prof. La Crosse, they walked to the One Hundred and Sixty-seventh Street Subway Station, and taking the cars they were soon at the 96th Street Station, where they changed cars.

The transfer having taken place they were soon whirling towards their destination. Arriving at the Park, they strolled along the admirable paths till they came to the zebra enclosure, where they saw a couple of that genus. After the Zebra came the Antelope House, where they saw the different species of the antelope family, from the largest to the smallest. In another house they saw a keeper feeding a couple of seals, and Prof. La Crosse lost no time in pumping him of all the information concerning seals that he could. The class was especially inquisitive whenever they saw a keeper, and kept the Professor translating queries till they were satisfied. The Monkey House came next. The queer antics of these animals was a source of endless amusement to us. The rest of the afternoon was spent in seeing the bears fed, watching the beavers, etc., and finally we visited the Elephant House.

It was here that a humorous incident occurred. George K. S. Gompers, having made the acquaintance of the elephant keeper as only he can, asked to be allowed to feed the small one. Receiving permission, he put some cakes in his coat pocket, thus making the elephant reach in for it. The elephant, persuaded by its keeper took the first cake all right, but, pretending to reach in a second time, it hit George a resounding thwack on the cheek. Hereafter George won't do it. The keeper said that this was the first time any stranger could persuade the elephant to even touch anything held by an unknown person.

After the elephants had been seen, the time being short we made a bee line for the subway station, and all being aboard we started on our homeward trip, arriving about half past five. Much credit is due Mr. La Crosse for his remarks, without which the journey would have been uneventful. While watching the bears being fed, we met Dr. Leale, Chairman of the Instruction Committee of this Institution, who expressed his approbation of our visit, he believing that instruction in Nature is best gained by seeing it in real life.

Friday evening, Company C, with the Band, went to the Bushwick Avenue Methodist Episcopal Bible School and there gave an exhibition drill. The journey to the Church was a long one, and as many of the little fellows never had gone as far as Brooklyn Bridge, the usual evening crush was a source of wonder to them. Arriving at the Church the following Program was gone through:

Music by Band.
*Singing by Quartette
Manual of Arms by entire Company
Music by Band.
*Collection.
Music by Band.
*Singing by Quartette.
Butts' Rifle Drill by first half of Co. C.
Butts' Calisthenic by second half.
*Stereopticon Views.
Music by Band.
*By Church Members.

Following is the list of the various airs produced by our Band:

Star Spangled Banner.
Werner's Parting Song.
Answer. Andante.
Old Black Joe.
My Old Kentucky Home.
Massa's in the Cold, Cold, Ground.
Old Hundred.
Sicilian Chimes.
Double Eagle.
Thunderer.
Auld Lang Syne.

Upon the conclusion of our exhibition we went downstairs, where we were treated to ice-cream and cake, and upon being satisfied, we marched back to the cars, and an hour later everybody was in bed at the school.

Captains Lux and Nimmo and Corporal Bergman came along with the company and Band and saw the drill.

Wednesday afternoon, Cadets Gallagher, Wriede, Burke, W. Lux W. St. Clair and O'Brien, in charge of Mr. Wickersham, went to St. Joseph's Seminary in Yonkers, where they had been invited by two students of the Seminary, Messrs. Farley and Gordon. They enjoyed themselves visiting the various departments of the place, and upon their return reported an enjoyable afternoon.

The members of the Fanwood Literary Association were pleasantly entertained in the chapel by the Fifth Female Grade, who presented the following well-arranged program:

READING—"School Boy's Fun and it's Consequences," by Miss M. Carrol.
READING—"How a Boy Saved his Father's Life," by Miss F. Albert.
POEM—"A Little Worker," by Miss E. Lewis.
READING—"John Hart's Watch," by Miss E. Grossman.
READING—"How Marguerita saved Children," by Miss E. Christian.
READING—"The Lost Children," by Miss T. Jacobs.
READING—"The Greedy Eagle," by Miss A. Stenz.
READING—"The Arrest of the President," by Miss W. Makowski.
DIALOGUE—"People will Talk," by the Class.

The class did well, and upon its conclusion Dr. Fox complimented the class its upon its excellent showing, after which he gave the news of the week, dwelling particularly on the recent death of Edward the Seventh, King of England. As this topic will be much talked of in the press for some time, he gave every thing that he knew about the death of kings and the coronation of their successors. The deaf will be surprised to hear that when he was Prince of Wales, Edward VII visited this Institution and saw the various methods of teaching the deaf, he all the time sitting on the chapel platform in one of the big chairs. He patted Mr. Jones, then a pupil, on the head, to show his approval of his exhibition. After various other topics being dilated upon, there being nothing else, the meeting adjourned at 8:45.

Last Saturday the Fanwood Regulars journeyed to Cornwall, losing that game by the score of 12 to 3, mostly through deficient fielding. Below is the line-up, positions, etc.

The Annual Report in booklet form has reached the Institution from the binder.

Next Tuesday afternoon the Annual competition for Medals will take place.

Several of the printer apprentices are competing for the June prizes. Lack of errors, amount of ems and general all-around neatness of work is what is essential.

Mr. Higgie Hughes, a colored deaf-mute from South Carolina, is in the city. He visited Fanwood on Saturday, the 7th inst. He is a licensed peddler, and makes a fair living in selling Bibles.

WHY HE LOST HIS FRIENDS

He was always wounding their feelings, making sarcastic or funny remarks at their expense.

He was cold and reserved in his manner, gloomy, pessimistic.

He was suspicious of everybody.

He never threw the doors of his heart wide open to people, or took them into his confidence.

He was always ready to receive assistance from his friends, but always too busy or too stingy to assist them in their time of need.

He regarded friendship as a luxury to be enjoyed, instead of an opportunity for service.

He never learned that implicit, generous trust is the very foundation stone of friendship.

He never thought it worth while to spend time in keeping up his friendships.

He did not realize that friendship will not thrive on sentiment alone; that there must be service to nourish it.

He did not know the value of thoughtfulness in little things.

He borrowed money from them.

He never hesitated to sacrifice their reputation for his advantage.

He was always saying mean things about them in their absence.—Success Magazine.

Smallest Sheep in the World.

The smallest sheep in the world is the tiny Breton sheep. It is too small to be profitable to raise, for it can not have much wool, and as for eating, why, a hungry man could eat almost a whole sheep at a single meal.

It takes its name from the part of France where it is most raised. It is the dearest little pet imaginable. It is very gentle, and because it is so tiny it is not such a nuisance about the house as the famous lamb which belonged to the little girl named Mary.

Any little girl could find room in her lap for a Breton sheep. One of its peculiarities is its extreme sympathy with the feelings of its human friends when it has been brought up in the house as a pet. If its master or mistress is pleased about anything the little sheep will frisk about with every sign of joy. On the contrary, if tears are being shed the sympathetic sheep will utter the most pitiful "Ba-a" ever heard.—Washington Star.

The Gallaudet Memorial.

It is proposed to create a memorial to the late Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, D.D., by the erection of a Parish Building for St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes. The present Church is situated on 148th Street, just west of Amsterdam Avenue, and is built some twenty-five feet back from the line of the street to permit the erection of such a building as above indicated, which will form a facade to the church edifice and be a center of religious and social life amongst the silent peoples. Dr. Gallaudet hoped during his lifetime to see the erection of this building, which would have completed the church with which his name has always been associated. This was not permitted, and it is suggested as a most fitting memorial to him that this work be now undertaken. St. Ann's Church is used wholly for the deaf-mutes.

The new building will occupy a plot of ground about forty-five feet along the street front and twenty-five feet in depth. It will be three stories in height, with a basement, and will be used for the social, religious and industrial needs of the deaf-mutes of New York. The amount required for "The Gallaudet Memorial Parish Building" will be about $30,000, and the building itself, in its position and purpose, will form a conspicuous monument to him whose life was devoted to the silent peoples. They themselves heartily endorse the memorial.
